PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

This is a Victorian Gothic-style house built of uncoursed stone. It is a three-bay, two and a half story house. It has one interior end chimney and cross gables. The gables have patterned wood shingles above the second floor and paired windows. The windows are double hung with arched heads matching the arched stonework above them. The centered door has a large rectangular transom and sidelights. Four simple unfluted columns sit on brick bases and support a one-story hipped roof porch on the façade; a decorative corner brace connects the porch to the stonewall. A one-story addition off the back of the house gives it a T-shaped plan. This house is in poor condition.

Classification: This house is a Class II resource due to architecture and alterations.
