PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION:

This house is a very late Georgian style building clad in stucco. The core of the house is a four bay, two and a half story, end-gable house built c. 1870. There are two interior end chimneys. The windows are two over two double hung with shutters. The door appears in the third bay under a porch spanning the façade and is attached to four spindle-like columns with Queen Anne brackets. A two story addition behind the original structure has smaller windows for the stairwell and one bay of windows identical to those in the original house. It also has a flat roof. A second addition in the rear is only one story but maintains the window and shutter pattern of the original.

Classification: This well-kept residence is a fine example of mid-nineteenth century Georgian style with compatible additions. It is in great condition and is a Class II resource.
